The Marly

Hongkong, June 17th, 1874.

The statement which we published yesterday from the Financier, to the effect that China is about to enter the Enropean money mar kets for the purpose of effecting a loan, is worthy of consideration. It is somewhat strange that the matter has not become known out here, but this may possibly be accounted for by business reasons on the part of those immediately connected with the matter. The subject, however, has long been talked of, and many who are well informed upon China affeirs regard the step as likely his laxity in dealing with the Bonapartiate. to be beneficial in a political point of view. The motion was rejected by 377 to 326. The Borrowing money from a man has generally Government has suspended for a fortnight, and a good effect in increasing respect for him, intends to prosecute the Bonapar ist paper, H. F. It is a peculiar fact, and one worthy of consideration in connection with the present subject, that nothing did more to bring Turkey into the comity of nations than her contracting a loan, and as there is much passage of 42 days. This vessel is the property similarity between the relations of China to other nations, and those of Turkey, if may be Glasgow; at Pointhome, and is the fourth surprised that the like cause will produce the vessel designed for the traffic on the abovelike effects in the present instance. There is the morning of the 3rd of May arrived at Port one obvious way in which a China loan is Said on the 16th, and, passing through the Sucz delengant from Mr. Chater. The price of it acspect, have presented itself to the minds of report made to him by the Public Worship likely to prove beneficial. China is looked upon as a far off and unimportant cleach built, has one overhead beam engine commission. Plaintiff pressed for it, and was place—except for the matter of tea and silk direct acting, and 400 horse power combined offered $25. This was refused, and plaintiff resolved that question? Judge Story, in Ministerial organs, that his Majesty and, so long as the trade appears to go on moderately well, people at home are very deck 1,163.94 tons; round house $22.15 tons, little disposed to trouble themselves about details which are difficult to muster, and do not appear to those who are not intimately acquainted with their bearing as of much practical importance. Affairs in China will, however, assume a very different importance when she becomes a large creditor of Western intions; and there can be no doubt that one of the direct offects of her obtaining a loan at home would be to attract such attention to China questions a could not fail to have a beneficial effect towards negolution of those political and commercial problem bich have been so long discussed, and upon the ment of which progress in China so much depends. It is not improbable that a like cause was at least, to some extent, the secret of the beneficial effect which was produced by the Turkish loan. As to the question considered in its com-As to the question considered in its com-dispatch steamer. Patino of the Spanish mercial aspect, it is impossible to speak very Oban-tim-sim, with picks, bis pount of a definitely until the details are known. does not appear from the paragraph in the Financier whether the proposed load was to be secured or not; but it is to be presumed that capitalists will scarcely be found to advance money to a Government of such doubt- sent to one month's hard labour, and ordered Ful reputation as that of China unless they to be flogged twice with a mittan, ten strokes have some tangible security. When the question of raising a loan was first spoken of in pianon to raise the money upon the security stone into his garden, in Robinson-road, to the security officers returning from Ashret by them to make the goods side, acts as a print the Prince's policy, should remain, at the of the foreign Customs, and, if this plan were danger of his children and himself, who were danger of his children and himself, who were remainded the Royal Artillery Mess with deut man should do and if this plan were danger of his children and himself, who were remainded the Royal Artillery Mess with deut man should do and if this plan were danger of his children and himself, who were resorted to, the investment might be a tolerably safe one, as there is no doubt that in one form or another the duties according to the Treaty will continue to be collected, and this class of security would be dependent only upon the existence of foreign trade with China, which is of course certain to continue. In this form, a China loan might be an acceptable mode of investment; but if it is proposed to raise money merely upon the faith of the Peking Government, it is doubtful whether the intestment will command public confidence. At all events, it will be one of somewhat questionable safety as the Chinese pery in money matters as well as in other affairs, and even at the present dayalthough matters have much improved since the suppression of the Taiping Rebellion—has not so firm a footing as to render it beyond the bounds of possibility that it might be overthrown by some other revolution. Ultimately they might do so, as China has a marvellous power of recovering from difficulties which seem almost insuperable; but in the mean. Ship-street. time great mischief would be done as one value of the securities as to entail very serious loss on their holders. If, therefore, the loan spoken of be proposed on the bare security of the Chinese Government, it will be necessary to act with caution; but, on the other hand, if the present idea is the same as one mooted sometime ago, namely, that of raising a loan on the security of the duties on foreign trade as collected by the Imperial Customs under foreign inspection, the investment would probably prove a safe and remunerative one, as whatever changes might to get on board the steamship Yesso. take place, there is no doubt that the duties would continue to be levied, and foreign getting on board and created a great distur- efficiency of the stowage, and expressed their nations could always make it a condition of bance, and for some time could not be got out opinion that the method adopted was proper. paying them that the liabilities for which

According to these theorists. the Bank is in a hazardous condition whenever the reserve falls below ten millions, but becomes safe the moment that arbitrarily fixed level in passed. Since this note of alarm is now beginning to be sounded, it becomes necessary to calculate both the monetary demands likely to be experienced in the immediate future, and the extraneous sources of supply with which they will be met. At present commerce is not only duli, but accompanied by influences which, if not speedily obecked, will cause absolute stagnation. No doubt certain signs of gradual recovery showed themselves last month, and there was every reason to expect increased activity as the year advanced. But some of our greatest industries have been since then paralysed by complications between labour and capital, while cotton manufacturers languish in the face of the Bengal famine. On activity in iron coal, cotton, and agriculture English commercial prosperity chiefly rests, and these are now all more or less affected by prejudicial influences. The great ironworks at Durham were lately at a standstill, many collieries in the same district ceased working, coals suddenly rose 25 per cent, in value, the agricultural strike spreads in all directions, and the great industry of Manchester, is in a state of semi-paralysis. Viewing these facts, there certainly seems greater probability of contraction in trade than of expansion; and the Bank directors are acquitted of not having borne in mind probable commercial requirements when allowing the reserve to fall away. Any notive demand for trading purposes being unlikely for some time to come, the only chance of dangerona deplation of reserve lies in continuous foreign drain of ballion. The present French demand for gold is undoubtedly of this nathre, but there is no reason to expect it will be pushed to_extremes. The directors of the Bank of France know that if it once comes to a question of competition in the money market. England can afford to bid higher than any foreign nation, because she makes more profit Victoria fire Insurance Company's Sharesdut of those purchases. It sceme, therefore safe to assume the French demand will be kept within moderate bounds, ceasing immediately any signs of stringency show themselves in the London market. Accepting the fact that Paris will require half-a-million weekly from Liondon, the question is, whether extraneous supplies will replenish the reserve of the Bank of England as quickly as it is reduced by the action of this drain. Whatever may bappen bereafter, sufficient provision certainly exists for the maintanance of the reserve at its present strength in the immediate future. Large quantities of gold are on their way from Australia, some of which will shortly come to hand, while considerable shipments have been telegraphed from New York. These will probably suffice to supply French requirements, while if existing industrial complications continue, a large amount of capital now employed in manu-

HOW DR. LIVINGSTONE WAS BITTEN BY A LION. The accompanying extract from Dr. Livingstone's Missionary Travels and Researches in South Africa; published in 1857, will be read with peculiar interest at the present date. It bears specially upon the matter now in question. In giving an account of an attack on a troop of lions in the village of Mobotsa, Dr. Livingstone says: "In going round the end of the bill, however, I saw one of the beasts sitting on a piece of rock as before but this time he had a little bush in front Being about 30 yards off, I took a good aim at his body through the bush, and fire both barrels into it. The men then called out He is shot he is shot!" Others cried, He has been shot by another man too; let us go TOOLIGIES granted at correct rates on Mato him!
